

Smart Bioenergy – Innovations for a sustainable future

Deutsches Biomasseforschungszentrum – Opening words

Dr. René Backes

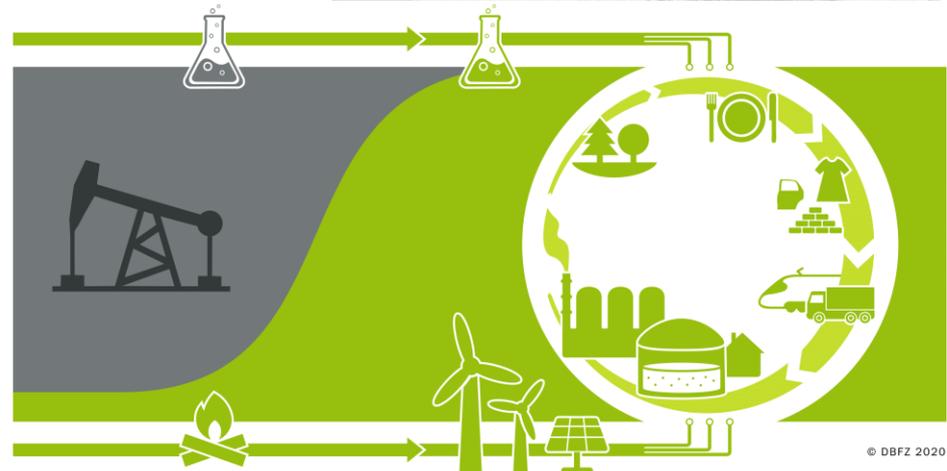

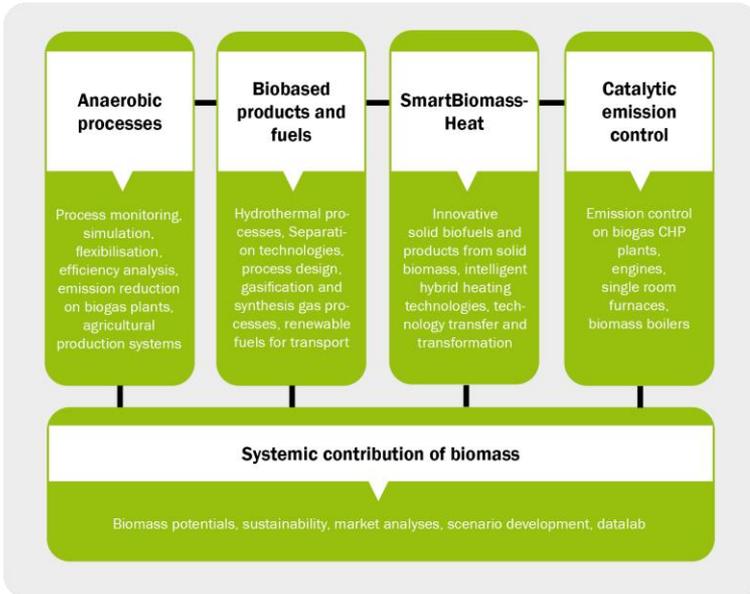

Policy workshop 25 March 2025, Leipzig

DBFZ in a nutshell

Vision

Our research is a key to a climate-neutral society by 2050 at the latest, when closed carbon cycles in the bioeconomy will have replaced the fossil economy.

as of 12/2023:

~ 8,450 biogas plants

6.5 GW<sub>e</sub> installed electrical capacity

Gross electricity production

→ 28.7 TWh<sub>e</sub> (11% RE electricity share)

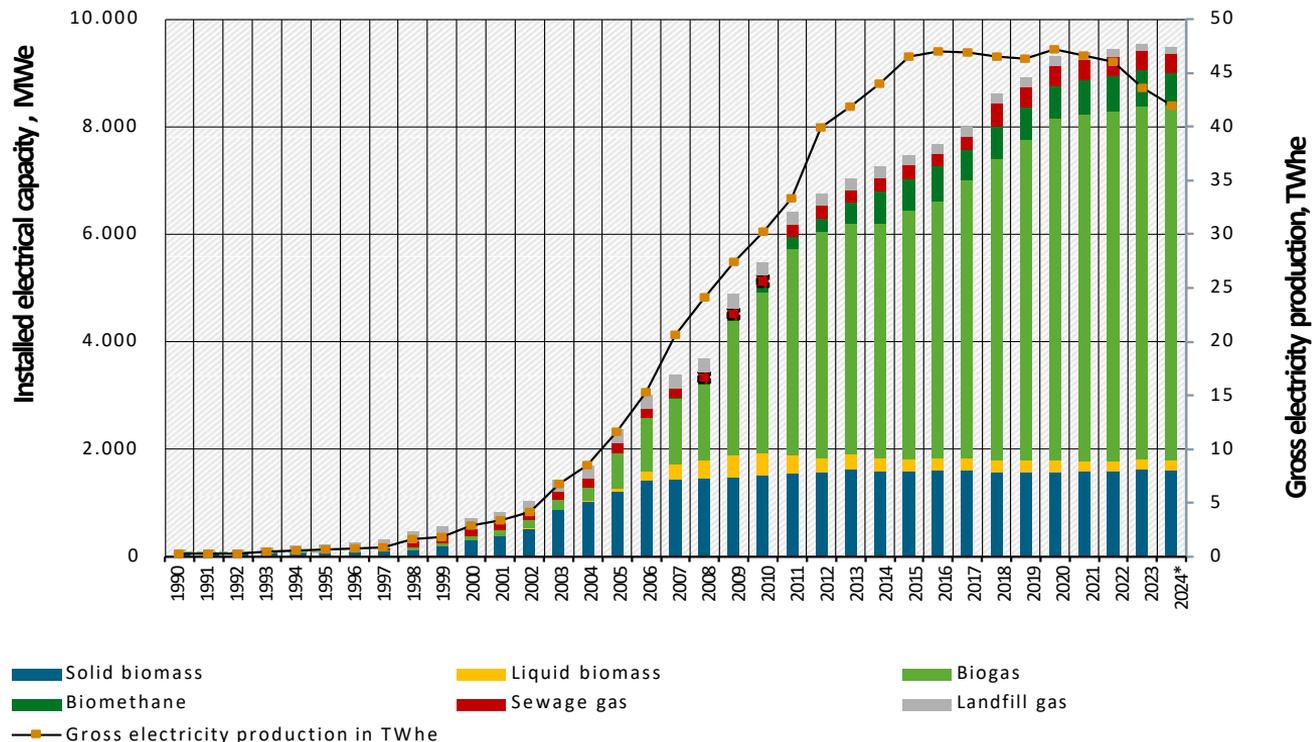

Heat supply

→ 14.3 TWh<sub>th</sub> (7% RE heating and cooling share)

Biomethane market uptake

GREENMEUP

A holistic framework of Key Performance Indicators for assessing national biomethane market uptake in European countries

Indicator number	PESTEL category	Indicator name
1	Policy	Level of policy commitment
2	Technological	Feedstock readiness
3	Economic	Valorization of by-products
4	Technological	Infrastructure performance
5	Ecological	Emission reduction potential
6	Socio-cultural	Social perceptions
7	Legal	Financial support
8	Socio-cultural	Stakeholder networks
